USDA Pandemic Response and Safety Grants

Registration & Application Support

Introduction

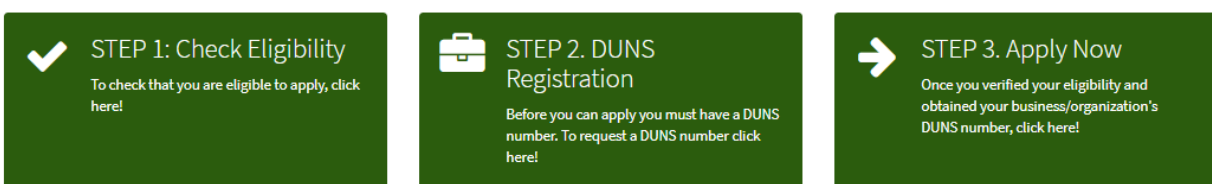

Applications will open for the USDA Pandemic Response and Safety (PRS) Grant Program on October 6, 2021, and close at 11:59 p.m. Eastern Time on November 22, 2021. Approximately $650 million, minus administrative expenses, is available to fund applications through this program. You can access the PRS Grant Program website at <https://usda-prs.grantsolutions.gov>.

- As part of USDA Pandemic Assistance, we are seeking applications for the PRS Grant Program to support agricultural stakeholders who haven't yet received substantial federal financial assistance to respond to the COVID-19 crisis.
- The program will help small businesses in certain commodity areas including small specialty crop and aquaculture producers, food processors and distributors, and farmers markets.
- The list of eligible entities types, using North American Industry Classification System (NAICS) codes is available on the Grant Solutions web portal and in the Request for Applications \(RFA\).
- Entities interested in applying for a grant through the PRS Grant Program must have an active DUNS number through Dun & Bradstreet (D&B). D&B created a custom landing page for the PRS Grant Program to support this process: <https://www.dnb.com/pandemicresponse>.
- Applicants should NOT register with SAM.gov prior to submitting an application. Once USDA offers awards to applicants later this fall, USDA will work with entities on SAM.gov registration prior to finalizing the award.
- The potential applicant pool for this grant program is large and unprecedented for a Federal grant offering. The USDA, GSA, and HHS are working together to ensure a smooth application process for groups that are interested in the PRS Grant Program.

Application

The application is a three-step process: verify eligibility, obtain a DUNS number, and apply. The graphics below are posted live on the Grant Solutions web portal and stakeholders can use them for outreach.

Interested In Applying?

Step 1: Eligibility Verification

The first step for applicants is to verify eligibility. Eligible applicants include small specialty crop and aquaculture producers, food processors and distributors, and farmers markets who are small businesses. The criteria for business types and size is described in the Eligible Industry Table at https://usda-prs.grantsolutions.gov/usda?id=usda_eligibility_info.

Step 2: DUNS Registration

The second step in the application process is to secure a DUNS number. The 9-digit unique DUNS number will be assigned, free of charge, to a valid business entity based on their Legal Business Name and physical location.

- Don't know if you already have a DUNS number? Look it up at: <https://support.dnb.com/PandemicResponse>.
- Need a DUNS number? Apply at: <https://support.dnb.com/PandemicResponse>.
